

Softly, softly, our natures sing.

The sun it rises, the warmth will bring.

Slowly, slowly we start to wake
the day a death
for heaven's sake.

Never, never we see too far
necessity it blinds
the scar we are.